

Bluegrass Masters Music Camp

October 31 - November 2, 2003, at Sequoia Seminar, Ben Lomond, CA
 1 1/2 hrs from San Francisco in the redwood forests of the Santa Cruz Mountains

Roland White

With: Roland White (mandolin), Jim Hurst (guitar),
 Ron Stewart (fiddle), Missy Raines (bass) and Bill Evans (banjo)

Get away to beautiful northern California and learn from these legendary players in a fun but intensive weekend of small group instruction, concerts and jamming designed for intermediate level players who want to learn more on their instrument as well as learn more about playing (and singing!) with others in a bluegrass band or jam. Enjoy six delicious meals and relaxing and comfortable accommodations for two nights at Sequoia Seminar, located 1/2 hour from San Jose and 30 minutes from the Pacific Ocean at Santa Cruz.

Get up close with bluegrass legend Roland White, IBMA award winners Jim Hurst, Ron Stewart, and Missy Raines and West Coast favorite Bill Evans for three days of small group instrumental instruction, instructor-led jams, concerts and electives covering vocal harmony, music theory, critical listening, band rhythm, arranging, repertoire and more. Intermediate students should have one year or more playing experience on their instrument. Students will be grouped in bands according to experience level.

Class sizes are limited. $605 tuition includes all classes, meals, concerts and accommodations. Double and single occupancy rooms are available for an additional fee. Non-student spouses and students who choose to stay off site are also welcome for an adjusted fee (see form for details). Camp programming begins at 2 p.m. on Friday and ends at 3 p.m. on Sunday.
